There is a strong emphasis on colour, texture, line and composition in her work. She has concentrated on studies of the landscape for more than 20 years. Her imagery is forged by a combination of sketches, photography, computer generated enhancements and imagination. She particularly enjoys hovering in the space where subject matter recedes and paint becomes paint, recombining to form new images, some more representational to the viewer than others.

In May of 2022, as well as in 2023, Ms. Burton took part in “Doors Open Toronto” in her studio at 401 Richmond St. W, Toronto. She added an interactive element to her practice inviting visitors to participate in the creation of a large painting celebrating and interrogating Canada entitled “the State of our Nation Today

She is represented by Galerie Jean Claude Bergeron 150 rue St. Patrick, Ottawa and Yumart Gallery 401 Richmond St. West in Toronto. Her next solo exhibition will be in June 2024 at Yumart Gallery.
